A laugh was caused by Senator Murphy's vote when it was found to be different from Senator Hill's vote, and some pleasant allusions were made to the influence of one kind of collar being too powerful for another kind. The "explanations" offered by some of the Senators were listened to with impatience, and when the result was announced—30 to 34—there was a general feeling of relief.

It is to be hoped that the House will aucceed in restoring the bill to something like its original shape, and that no time will be wasted in doing it.

WELCOME BACE.

Mr. Richard Croker has returned to New York according to schedule.

It is fitting that he should come back on Independence Day. He showed himself independent of public opinion when he made his sudden and secret departure in apparent dread of the Lexow Committee.

He was independent of the sentiment of the people when he made a brazen show of his wealth and refused to any where he got it.

He manifested independence of the principles of justices and fairness when he denied the rank and file of the organization over which he held the leadership the privilege of having an opinion of their own and required from them bilind obedience to his will.
